minimums, that the bill passed by the Committee, is BETTER for the manufacturer, than an ad valorem duty of FIFTY PER CENT, which is an addition to the present duty, of more than 16-2-3 per cent on the cost of the articles; although this is a greater increase of the rate of duty than ever was made by Congress, upon any article at one time.— Nothing short of immediate and absolute prohibition, and a consequent monopoly, will satisfy the incorporated woollen manufacturing companies, (we mean the owners of the Stock, not the honest laborers,) of New England. It is scarcely necessary to add, that no member from New England, voted for Mr. Buchanan's amendment. The anti-tariff members of the South, also voted against it, because, upon principle they are opposed to any additional protection, by increase of duty, and of course it was defeated.

DIED.

In this township, on Tuesday last, Mr. John White, a revolutionary pensioner, aged about 89. He was at the assault on Quebec, and several battles in our revolutionary war; having retired from the situation of soldier to that of citizen, he was vigilant in support of revolutionary principles to his last day's, never failing, when able, to attend the polls, and vote the democratic ticket, but alas! his example is removed. He has gone! "Our father's where are they?"

To the Friends of American Prosperity.

THE subscriber has on consignment about seventy copies of an elegantly engraved Portrait of the late GOV CLINTON; which he will dispose of, if called for, immediately, at 50 cents each.

By procuring this Portrait, American citizens, will both furnish themselves with a handsome ornament for their room; and enjoy the happiness of seeing the lineaments of his countenance, who was the first statesman of the age, and the greatest public benefactor, which has ever existed in America.

JOHN KILBOURN.

Columbus, March 12th, 1828.

MONIED, establish and sustain presses, even a office, to delude and mislead the People.

It is, in part, to remedy this dearth of correct intelligence, and to oppose the violent torrent of detractions and misrepresentation, that are rolling like a pesuence over the land to deceive the credulous and entrap the un-informed; that this Prospectus is respectfully offered to the citizens of Green and the surrounding counties.

The PEOPLE'S PRESS is printed weekly in the town of Xenia, on a large super royal sheet, with a good type, and regularly forwarded to subscribers. The price is $2 a year, paid in advance, $2 50 if paid within the year, and $3 if not paid until the year expires.

Gentlemen to whom this Prospectus may be sent, will greatly oblige the editor, and advance the interests of the cause in which he is engaged, by using their exertions to obtain responsible subscribers, [and such only,] and forward their names to him as soon as convenient. Advance payments are earnestly solicited, as the means of the editor are small, and it will be with the utmost difficulty that he can sustain himself here, against the superior pecuniary power of his opponents.

Legislature of Pennsylvania. ABOLITION OF SLAVERY.

Mr. Krepps from the committee appointed on the subject made a very able report, which was read in the House of Representatives yesterday, recommending the abolition of slavery in the district of Columbia. The report is too long for publication in this paper, but shall appear in our next. The following are the resolutions which accompany the report:

Resolved, &c. That it be earnestly recommended to the Senators and Representatives of this state in the congress of the United States, to use their efforts to accomplish the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, in such manner as they may consider consistent with the rights of individuals, and the constitution of the United States.

Resolved, That the governor be and he be hereby requested to transmit a copy of the foregoing report and resolution to each of our senators and representatives in congress.

The United States and the Brazils.—During the war which has for some time past existed between Buenos Ayres and the Brazils, neutral commerce has, as is usual, suffered; but, all the rest of the world being at peace, the injuries inflicted on it have not, as formerly, been confined to the United States, but have been extended to the maritime powers of Europe. None of the suffering commer-

1600 people were given by Lafitte in the morning of the marriage day. Amongst the company were several Peers, a great number of Deputies, Generals, men of letters, and public functionaries, and amongst the latter M. de Belleyme, the Prefect of Police. Upwards of five hundred ladies, many of them remarkable for their beauty, and all in the newest and most brilliant costumes, presented a most enchanting coup-d'œil. The evening commenced by a concert, in which the principal singers of the French and Italian Operas took a part. A Cantata, composed expressly for the occasion by Rossini was sung by Nowviet and Dabadier, of the French Opera. Several Italian pieces were afterwards sung by Bordogna and Mesdames Pisaroni, Sonntag and Maibran, (formerly Mademoiselle Garcia.) Rossini presided at the piano.

In the intervals of the concert, the bride and bridegroom walked arm-in-arm through the various apartments. The bride wore a veil and robe of the most costly point lace; on her head was the nuptial crown of orange flowers; her ear-rings were formed of two remarkably fine emeralds encircled with brilliants, and from which hung, in form of a triangle, three large diamonds, terminated by three large pearls en poire; a diamond necklace—or, as the French more poetically call it, a river of diamonds, surrounded her neck, and, in the words of the old ballad, "cast light throughout the hall." The extreme paleness of her countenance, rendered still more striking by the raven blackness of her hair, and the melancholy, languid, and almost suffering expression of her eyes, offered a singular contrast to the glossiness of her dress and the splendour and magnificence amidst which she moved. The bridegroom had nothing remarkable in his appearance. He is under the middle size, and his countenance rather devoid of expression. His youngest brother (the Duke of Elchingen) was, on the contrary, one of the finest young men of the party. About two o'clock in the morning, the windows of the drawing-room which look upon the court were thrown open, and offered so many entrances to a splendid temporary refectory constructed for the occasion, though attacking a little importance to these missions, thought proper, however, to lay them before the Prefect of Police, who, also looking upon them as contemptible efforts of malice without any serious intention of execution, nevertheless took certain precautions, which, to those not in the secret, appeared somewhat extraordinary. About the doors of the church were posted some twenty gendarmes, whilst the carriage in which was the bride was escorted by three or four more. No person was admitted into the church without a ticket. The Prefect even carried his precaution further; he procured several of the most respectable looking police agents, and set them, in their holiday suits, to mingle with the well-dressed crowd in the church, and keep a sharp look-out. No interruption, however, to the ceremony, nor any accident of any kind took place; and all passed off in perfect order and safety. None of the French Peers who voted for the death of Marshal Ney were invited to the wedding. M. Lafitte gave, on the occasion, to the poor of his own parish, 10,000f. (400l.), and to each of the other eleven parishes, 4000f. (160l.)—total 54,000f. (2,160l.) He gave to each of the clerks in his establishment 3,000f. (120l.) The day after the marriage, his daughter found in her nuptial corbeille a little Album, upon the first page of which was written, "I add to the nuptial presents of my daughter 50,000f. (2,000l.) for the benefit of the Greeks. She may draw upon my house to-morrow for the sum."—The widow of Marshal Ney made Miss Lafitte a present of a splendid prayer-book, the clasp of which is formed of a superb diamond. This book is valued at 3,000f. (1,200l.)

THE DISTRESSED GREEKS.

Exertions are still making in many of the eastern towns and cities, to procure provisions to send to this poor miserable people. Dr. Howe has recently returned from that country, where he had the disposal and distribution of several cargoes of provisions which had been sent out from this country. At a Greek meeting in the city of New York, a few weeks since, in an address to the people, he stat-
